Monash Children's at Southern Health is Victoria's second largest and Australia's third largest children's hospital.

We are dedicated to providing quality patient care for the children and families of the south eastern suburbs of Melbourne and beyond, right across Victoria.

We deliver fully integrated care for all children from birth up to 19 years of age in a comforting environment with the best possible support for parents and families.

We are part of Southern Health, Victoria's largest health service, which is unique in offering all levels of integrated care for all stages of life in one organisation.

A tradition of care

We have been looking after children every day for over 100 years.

Originating at the former Queen Victoria Hospital, Monash Children's has built on a proud history of caring for Victorian children.

Our history encompasses Dandenong Hospital, providing care since 1942, the Monash Medical Centre, Clayton which opened in 1987, and since 2004, our newest facility Casey Hospital.

We are a teaching hospital of international standing built on strong traditions in paediatric research and education.

This excellence ensures the latest advances at the bedside and that Monash Children's is ready to meet the needs of children in the future.

in care

Partnering in care

Together with the Royal Children's Hospital (RCH), Monash Children's is one of just two hospitals responsible for delivering all of Victoria's tertiary paediatric services including neonatal and paediatric intensive care, and specialist inpatient care.

In partnership with Royal Children's, Monash Children's also operates specialist state wide services for the Victorian community, including our Children's Cancer Centre, Paediatric Rehabilitation, Orthopaedics and Forensic Medicine Services.

Translating research into care

Monash Children's doctors, nurses and allied health professionals are committed to improving the lives of children and their families through research, education and training.

We are able to advance paediatric care in strong collaborations with major medical research partners. This includes our role as part of the Monash Health Research Precinct, partnered with outstanding medical research bodies including Monash University, Monash Institute of Medical Research and Prince Henry's Institute, and others such as Deakin University and the Monash Institute of Health Services Research.
